

RE-ENCHANTMENT AND GRATITUDE DAY: WATER

We mark this day to honor Water as Source, not only resource. Water as Alive. Water as Being. Water as a force that is in constant motion and shapeshifting. Water as life, part of our larger ecological self, as well as literally, viscerally a large part of “us.” Water as ocean, cloud, river, tree, glacier, dew, eyeball, food, and indeed, our blood.

How you conduct your Re-Enchantment and Gratitude Day is up to you and those you create with: It may be as simple as slowing down and giving a moment and a breath of gratitude as you drink water.

Or you may choose to visit with a body of water, set an intention, sit and listen, create an altar, or conduct a ceremony.

Invoke your intuition and natural, inherent ritual intelligence.

Below is a simple water blessing. It can be spoken out loud or silently. Feel free to shape it in a way that feels authentic to you. Part of the re-enchantment is speaking directly with our more-than-human kin, a re-who-ing of the world of which we are but one type of person.

WATER BLESSING

Beloved Water, we love you.

*With this small offering of words and energy,
may you hear our gratitude.*

We recognize and honor you as the condition for the thriving of all Life.

You remind us of our deep dependence and interconnectivity in the wider web of animacy.

You hold the memories of earth, carry the past forward, and demonstrate the never-ending shapeshifting of life.

May you be free from poison.

May you be free from disrespect.

May you thrive and flow.

May the community of Life you support continue to thrive.

May we remember your sacredness.

Beloved Water, we love you.
